writers in our Neighborhood

The Terraces has been fortunate to showcase the talents of many local authors. Books written by a Terraces resident, Flathead County locals and Montana state authors have found a place in our library. We invite you to explore and enjoy these literary "gifts" from our friends and neighbors. Here are a few examples:

Leslie Budewitz. Leslie has written the food Lovers Village Mysteries set in a fictional place quite like nearby Bigfork, Montana. How about trying "Butter off Dead?"

Carol Buchanan. Carol writes Montana historical novels. Begin with "God's Thunderbolt."

Debbie Burke. Debbie's Tawny Lindholm thrillers are set locally. You will feel at home as you read "Instrument of the Devil."

Christine Carbo. Christine's novels are set in this area of Montana, so you will recognize many places. Begin with "The Wild Inside."

Ivan Doig. Ivan's wonderful tales of Montana history, family and landscapes paint lovely pictures of life in early Montana. His final novel, "The Last Bus to Wisdom" is delightful!

John Fraley. John's years of involvement with Montana wildlife services provide him with the background for his fascinating publications. "Wild River Pioneers" will please you.

Mark Lechliter. Mark's interesting "police procedural" set in Flathead County cannot be beat for gorgeous scenery, suspense and surprise.

Norman McLean. One of the most vivid story tellers from Montana, Norman's "down home" stories have been popular for years. "A River Runs Through It" will thrill you.
